The Graduate School was established in 1978 with the view to expand the capacity of the University by producing higher qualified graduates, academician and researchers. All graduate programs offered at KKU are coordinated through the School’s Central Office. Interdisciplinary programs and joint co-operation programs with other institutions, both within and outside the country, are also organized by the Graduate School.

The Graduate School is loaded with burdens in designing programs and ensures educational quality in graduate level, moreover advances the research both nationally and internationally.

Our graduate students receive a rigorous education within a sympathetic and supportive ethos. With a large connection between Graduate School and others Faculties, they make an invaluable contribution to the cultural and academic life to the University, society, and country.

Each year, the Graduate School has major responsibility to carry out postgraduate admission. The applying examination in January is for those students who will start their study in the first semester (June), whereas the examination in August is for those students who will start their study in the second semester (November). The examination committees are from corresponding faculties, but the final results of the entrance examinations must be approved by the Graduate School committee.

Registration

To register for your degree programs, it is very important to follow the academic calendar. The Office of Registrar has provided e-registration system so that students can register at http://reg.kku.ac.th

When log on the system for the first time, your username and password are your student ID. Once you log on the system, you can change your password later. Please check well for your subject code, credits, and group before registration. Once you have confirmed your registration, you can not change it and you must pay the fee for the current registration. Your registration will be completed only when the tuition fees have been paid at the bank. If you register for more or less than the allowed credits, you shall submit a request with an approval form the Dean before you register.

It is essential, therefore, that you check the academic calendar so that you can plan your arrival prior the registration deadline.

Thesis Submission

To ensure that your submitted thesis is correspond to the University’s format and criteria, Graduate School has full responsibility to check and make sure that you have submitted the correct form. All theses, before being bound, must go through this process, also being signed by the Dean of Graduate School.

Once you have passed a Thesis Defense and a thesis has been submitted to Graduate School. The Thesis Section’s staffs will take care of format checking process. The steps of thesis submission and format checking are as follows:

- The Thesis Section’s staffs preliminary check for its completeness, such as Thesis Certifications, others needed Forms, etc.
- The staffs check and specify the mistakes of thesis format, such as pagination, citations, etc.
- Graduate School returns the thesis to the students to be corrected (the students must come to take it by themselves, at the date specified by the Graduate School)
- The students correct the specified mistakes within 45 days.
- The students return the corrected thesis to the Graduate School.

The process will go on and on like this until there is no mistakes to be corrected anymore. The thesis shall be checked again and again, if the students do not correct the mistakes specified by the Graduate School. As the students’ thesis is complete, Graduate School’s staffs will assign the thesis’s number, and return the thesis with the Dean’s signature to the students to be bound. Once the students submit the bound thesis, the process is finish, and you just wait for graduation from the University’s Council.
